- DISADVANTAGES OF APARTMENT
- Maintenance of the common facilities would come at a cost. Typically they range from Rs 1 per sqft to Rs 2.5 (for luxury properties) per month.
 - Limited or no freedom to make modifications to the exteriors your home.
 - Very limited space to develop interests such gardening or growing smaller farm animals (societies mostly object to the same).
 - Sound seepage between the wall of the adjoining apartments or voice from lower or higher floor could irritate you and visa versa especially if you have a nocturnal neighbour.

- ADVANTAGES OF APARTMENT
- One of the key advantage of an apartment is security for your family members in the event you are traveling or for the expensive house hold goods.
 - Facilities such as power and water backup, uninterrupted supply of cooking gas would help you to live a hazzle free life. The scarcity of power and good water is becoming a serious problem in most top cities and the problem is expected to escalate more in the future.
 - An apartment which is part of a large development will have a well maintained garden and landscaping as part of the complex. This will provide space for you and your family to take a stroll and relax.
